R. H. EDDY

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS

Late Agent of the U S Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1861)

170, State Street, opposite Kilby Street,

BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, also, in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Research made into Ancient or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The agency is not only the largest in New England, but through its inventors have attained, as for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered to an examiner. The testimonials below given prove this. Come is more successful at the Patent Office than the subscriber, and as success is the best proof of advantages and ability, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that, as to other offices of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full records of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS

I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of securing their allowances in a form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such an mistake is proof of great talent as I shall often use in part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents as they may be sure (I have, the most faithful attention to their cases, and at very reasonable charges." JOHN TAGGART

During eight months the subscriber, a course of the large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SEVEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

The Best Mechanical Paper in the World.

EIGHTEENTH YEAR.

Volume VIII - - - - New Series

A NEW VOLUME of this popular Journal commences on the first of January. It is published weekly and every number contains sixteen pages of useful information, and from five to ten original engravings of new inventions and discoveries, a list of which are prepared expressly for its columns.

To the Mechanic and Manufacturer

No person engaged in any of the mechanical or manufacturing pursuits should think of doing without the Scientific American. It costs but a few cents per week, every number contains from six to ten engravings of new machines and inventions, which can not be found in any other publication.

To the Inventor

The Scientific American is indispensable to every inventor, as it not only contains an illustrated description of nearly all the best inventions as they come out but each number contains an Official List of the Claims of all the Patents issued from the United States Patent Office during the week previous, thus giving a correct history of the progress of inventions in this country. We are also receiving every week the reliable scientific journals of Great Britain, France and Germany, thus placing in our possession all that foreign genius in mechanical science and art is thought in those old countries. We shall continue to transfer to our columns copious extracts from these journals of whatever we may deem of interest to our readers.

A pamphlet of information as to the best mode of obtaining Letters Patent on new inventions in the United States on application.

Messrs. Munn & Co have acted as Patent Solicitors for more than seventeen years, in connection with the publication of the Scientific American, and they refer to 50,000 patentees for whom they have done business.

No charge is made for examining sketches and models of new inventions and for advising inventors as to their patentability.

Chemists, Architects, Millwrights and Farmers,

The Scientific American will be found a most useful Journal to them. All the new discoveries in the science of chemistry are given in its columns, and the interests of the architect and carpenter are not overlooked, all the new inventions and discoveries appertaining to these pursuits being published from week to week. Useful and practical information pertaining to the interests of millwrights and mill owners will be found in the Scientific American which information they can not possibly obtain from any other source. Subjects in which farmers are interested will be found discussed in the Scientific American, most of the improvements in agricultural implements being illustrated in its columns.

TERMS

To mail subscribers Three Dollars a year, or Go Dollar for four months. The volume commences on the first of January and July. Specimen copies will be sent gratis to any part of the country.

Western and Canadian money or Post-office stamps taken at par for subscriptions. Canadian subscribers will please remit twenty five cents extra on each year's subscription to prepay postage.

WARREN'S

COUGH BALSAM

Has been found, by experience, to be the Best Remedy for the various Diseases of the Lungs and Throat, such as

Diphtheria,

Asthma, Bronchitis Consumption Croup, Pleurisy Pneumonia or Inflammation of the Lungs, and Whooping Cough.

IN these Complaints this Medicine has NO SUPERIOR, and while thus efficacious, it is perfectly SAFE to administer to persons of all ages.

At all times of the year this Balsam is found useful, especially in the Autumn, Winter and Spring and many Colds and Coughs which if neglected, might prove fatal, may be CURED at once by a few doses of this invaluable remedy.

This Cough Balsam possesses the two fold advantage of being at once valuable as curative and a safe as a preventive of all the diseases of the Throat Lungs and Bronchia.

In DIPHTHERIA this Balsam has proved itself unexpectedly efficacious. When given at the first onset of the Pestilence, it checks it at once, and in many cases, is believed by those who have used it, to have saved their lives.

In ASTHMA, however violent and distressing, this Balsam gives prompt relief.

In BRONCHITIS and PNEUMONIA it relieves the irritation loosens the Cough, and promotes a favorable expectoration.

In CROUP its powers are almost magical. This insidious disease, coming literally "like a thief in the night," may be speedily and effectually arrested by a few timely doses of this Balsam.

In WHOOPING COUGH it modificates the paroxysms, prevents the disease from assuming its severest and dangerous form, and shortens it course.

Every family should keep it in the house, and thus avoid the dangerous delay occasioned by sending out for the medicine when needed for immediate use.

The best recommendation for a good medicine is found in its use. To the following certificate from one who has used it, does not give you confidence in it, try one bottle for yourself and you will be convinced. It will cost you but twenty-five cents, and may save you as many dollars in time and doctors' bills.

Letter from Col. Roberts.

FRIEND WARREN.—Allow me to thank you for the beautiful supply of Cough Balsam received by me from you, through Isaac Boynton. Many a soldier is my command, as well as other, has experienced the beneficial effects of the same. We all pronounce the article sound—so does our Brigade Surgeon, Dr Lyman, of Boston, to whom I presented a bottle.

Whig & Courier.

How to Cure Fevers. We copy the following article upon the treatment of fevers from the New York Tribune, for the good which we are sure it will do. The writer evidently understands what he is talking about, and we believe in his doctrine.

To the Editor of the N Y Tribune

Sir—Hearts are sad over the melancholy announcement in the papers today of the death of General Mitchel, at Beaufort, S C, from an attack of yellow fever. In the name of humanity, and of the suffering Union cause, let me earnestly protest that this blow might have not fallen, Gen Mitchel need not have died. He might have been saved with most simple ease. I undertake to say that alone and unaided, acting both as nurse and physician, I could have cured him and a dozen others with him, as surely and easily as I turn my hand over, and with nurses enough to administer my treatment, I could have cured him and five hundred others with him, without the possibility of failing in one case of one of them. The bugbear of this disease is that it is yellow, it is the fact that it is the yellow that kills, and not the fact of the fever. All fevers are at last one. Nervous, bilious, brain, lung, congestive, miasmatic, typus, typhoid, ship, yellow—they are all the same thing, and the treatment of all is the same. And I declare that in our treatment of fevers we have fired too high, overshot the mark, and that is the secret of our signal and fatal failures. We need to come down from our heights of professional science and prescriptive practice to the bald methods of nature. I declare that there are no diseases cured so easily, not by such simple and common sense means—the philosophy of treating fevers, once announced, is sheer self-evidence, and treatment in accordance with that philosophy is a perfect guaranty of cure.

Fever is nothing but an excitement of the system which calls to be reduced. It is simply a fire to be put out. Four things will throw off and prevent fever, when an individual finds himself however seriously or immediately threatened with it. First, fasting, refusing to add fuel to the fire. Secondly, resting, remaining quiet, refusing to add to the excitement by whatever exertion. Thirdly, bathing, both to cool the system, and also to cleanse the skin and open its pores. But even more important to note the ends of cooling and purification than the external bathing is an internal bath, drinking copiously of pure, cold water, to wash out the impurities and more effectually reduce the temperature. Fourthly, through and frequently-repeated friction of the whole surface, rubbing the body over with the hand. It is almost past belief how certainly and rapidly fever can in this way be rubbed out of a man. One perfect, long continued operation would alone forestall many an entire fever.

And these three things will cure any fever, however violent the attack, and however firm a hold it may have gained. First, air. Fever is fire, and all you have to do is to put out that fire—cool it. Air alone in a multitude of cases would be sufficient to produce the result. Absence of air would in one minute make you have fever, as if you were shut up in a glass receiver or tight chest, and then restoring you to the air in one minute would cure you. So air alone will in a short time, and almost inevitably cure a man whom fever has made no matter how sick. First, open all the doors and windows, and let a perfect current of fresh air bless and cool him. Next throw off the bed clothes as much as possible, that this pure air may strike through to his suffering body. Thirdly, grasp the clothes in the center of the bed, and repeatedly and quickly raise them, that the air may sack through. Fourthly, lay hold with both hands of the sheets at his shoulders, and lift them up and let them fall, thus not only letting the air draw under, but fanning him. And thirdly, if the fever requires, strip off all the clothes from the bed, and his garment because, and let him have a perfect air-bath. It will soon cool him, and he cannot take cold till he is cool, when you must cover him again. These five things, followed up constantly from day to day and hour to hour as there was need (and perhaps some of them from minute to minute), would save the life of any man in fever. He was not already as good as dead from its long raging before you commenced. This is the way to reduce fever—this is reduction.

Secondly. Water. Water alone would cure almost any man in fever. First and principally have him drink—drink cold, fresh water. Let him drink quite freely and often if he will, but if not, a tumblerful every fifteen minutes, four every hour, and thus fifty in the course of half a day, will be sufficient most wonderfully and permanently to reduce his temperature and cool him of. An internal bath is ten times more efficacious than any external one. And if the drinking vomits him, all well, it will be because he needs to vomit. But this prescription is for very high fever, if the excitement and heat of the system are less, he will not drink so much. But secondly, if it is necessary or desirable, apply cold water externally, bathing the surface with a wet sponge, towel, or better yet, your hand. This can easily be done while the patient be covered in bed, and without wetting the bedclothes. Or, if the heat be great enough, and the strength of the patient good, the clothes can be turned back, and the body exposed for the bathing; as likewise there may be a discretion, according to circumstances, as to bathing the whole body at once, or only a part of it, as the arms first, afterwards the trunk, and then the lower limbs, only a part, therefore, being exposed, and all the rest protected. Or the direction may be as to bathing the whole body at all, or only the trunk, where the fever is, and not the extremities where it is not. But on the other hand, during the first stages of the disease, if the fever runs high, and the fire rages like a consuming flame, you may even put the patient into a tub of water, and pour and drench him with a will, as it will be just what he wants and the most grateful thing possible to his burning flesh. But in all cases, the ends sought forbid excess in applying this water-cure, the patient is to be cooled only, never chilled, for that would be to react and increase he fever. Let but that air-treatment be faithfully administered and the patient induced to drink as he should, and little or no bathing will commonly be demanded. But thirdly, it is often better, and some times necessary, from the weakness of the patient, to use warm water instead of cold—Apply it in the same manner, according to whatever need, but let it dry off from the skin without aid, and in evaporating, it will cool the surface even more rapidly and effectually than cold water. And if the fever is more local, as for instance, if the head is too hot, or the lungs are more particularly affected, keep that affected part cool by the constant application of cold water. All this is reduction again, reducing fever by water. And this alone would save almost any life from fever, not already as good as lost.

Thirdly, Friction. Air as we have seen would cure your patient, and so would water, and so now would friction; but you will naturally use them all, and all together. Use you will every now and then, during the continuance of the fever, rub the man from head to foot with your hand—briskly and forcibly if you may, gently and lightly if you must—and each time you will rub a certain great and definite part of his fever out of him. Especially you will rub him where you have him stripped for that air-bath, and at other times in the bed, commanding his whole body under the bed-clothes. Also, you will rub him after whatever baths you give him, though if you give him few or none, you should still just as much, and perhaps all the more, rub him frequently and regularly, as one important part of the cure. All this will be reduction again, reduction of fever by friction. But you may also have to use friction for equalization, for in time your patient may develop a tendency to coldness of the extremities, and then you must faithfully rub his hands and feet and limbs, to restore them to due equilibrium. And if his fever had raged long before you undertook with him, you may yet have to employ friction for invigoration—to warm, strengthen and vitalize him. Friction will do all these things, and in doing them will conquer the whole disease, equally with water and air. Either of these will conquer it, and then how much more will they all! And so your fever is at once cured and your patient saved.

And now it makes no difference if it is yellow fever—this treatment will cure it as certainly as any other fever, will absolutely and infallibly cure it. Take the worst case of yellow fever—yellow fever raging as a perfect epidemic and therefore the most malignant and fatal kind—and apply this treatment from day to day and hour to hour, and if necessary from moment to moment, and the fever must inevitably be quelled, and the man live as sure as a fate. The fever would begin to be conquered from the first moment, and step by step would be beaten back by a steady and irresistible power to final and utter extinction. The most desperate case possible could require but two things more than I have described—cleansing the stomach and relieving the bowels—but almost beyond fail that water drinking would have directly compelled both the results, and if not, still the same kind of simple and rational means I have all along prescribed will do so. Warm water is sufficient emetic for anybody, for even if there are those whom it will not vomit, (and there are very few) yet it will as sufficiently empty and cleanse the stomach by washing down and out as by throwing up—cause he contents to pass the other way, and the same warm water used as an enema, will open and cleanse any bowels. So that it still is bald nonsensicality that gives up a single man to die of yellow fever, a mistake and an ignorance which we shall come in time not to pardon. Had philosophy been permitted to stand by the bedside of Gen Mitchell from the day he was taken, and prescribe and administer its simple but efficacious treatment, that gallant hero would be alive and at the head of his army to day!

Our City Election.

The Municipal Election, which took place yesterday, was contested with the most determined spirit by the Anti-War Democrats, and with the confident expectation on their part that they would be able to carry the city, or at least to reduce the Union majority to a merely nominal figure. The result shows that in a heavier vote than has been thrown in a spring election for ten years, the Union candidate for Mayor, SAMUEL H. DAVIS, Esq., is elected by 521 majority over R. S. Prescott, Esq., the democratic candidate, and that the Union men have carried every Ward in the city except Ward 1, and in that Ward the Alderman, Mr. O'Donohoe, was voted for by both parties, and is believed to be a good Union man.

In Ward 2, heretofore a conceded democratic Ward, the Union men made a most gallant fight, and carried the Ward by eight majority. We have never known a more determined contest, against acknowledged odds, than was maintained by our friends in that Ward—and we have rarely seen greater disappointment than was felt by the anti-war democrats at their failure, both in that Ward and the city. The Union men, in the whole city indeed, worked nobly and most successfully to resist the delusions which the deceptive cry of "Peace," "No Draft," and "No Taxation" brought to bear against them. The vote of the city was much larger than was expected—exceeding any vote at a spring election for many years—notwithstanding hundred of our Union voters are absent at the war.

The City vote is as follows:

Editorial and Other Items.

—The people have no scruples as to employing negroes in carrying out the unpatriotic purpose of the rebellion. Should we hesitate in employing them to crush out that rebellion?

—The famous Thomas Tunnel is at last to be turned to some profitable purpose. Instead of being kept merely for a show, it is said that a railway is to run through it to connect the railways on the north side of the river with those on the South.

—"Malakoff" writes from Paris to the New York Times that it was the adoption of a measure giving relief to the suffering operatives, the American question has rapidly diminished in interest.

—Lake Winnipesaukee, N. H., has three large hosiery establishments, turning out about 500 dozen pairs daily. A large government contract has just been completed. Laconia has four hosiery mills, turning 600 dozen pairs daily, besides a very large quantity of ladies' sontags, hoods, etc.

—It is reported that the sea serpent has been captured on the eastern coast of South America.

—Pittsburg, Pa., is now, with its suburbs, a city of 150,000 inhabitants.

—Thomas Jefferson Shelly, coachman of the United States Hotel, New York, died on Friday from excessive fat. He was of ordinary size but eight years ago, when he commenced to grow large, and he weighed 600 pounds.

—Incendiary. As the American ship George Griswold, loaded with food contributed in this country for the starving Lancashire operatives, was going into the port of Liverpool, the English steamer Dolphin was leaving with a cargo of arms and ammunition for the rebels, via Nassau.

—It is said that the lawyers in one of the new States where they wish to make a particular impression on the jury, knock the opposing counsel into the jury box. The course of argument is usually productive of satisfactory results.

—Prof. Loomis of Bowdoin College, has offered as a signal prize to the successful competitor in Bowling, the Bowdoin mountains cannot be beat in this department.

—"Bellow pipe tobacco" will a stump speaker, during a meeting last year, "which I am the fragments of a Hebrew Sabbath days collected all together and put into barrels, then and not till then, will I believe that this glorious Union can be dissolved."

—One hundred acres of a farm near Providence, the Tree an Burgess farm, has been sold for five hundred dollars per acre.

—It is said that the census office estimates the number of males in the loyal States, between the ages of twenty and thirty-five, will number two million three hundred thousand, and that at least one million five hundred thousand are fit for duty.

—The penalty in Philadelphia for selling poor butter is confiscation—half to go to the check the other half to the poor. The old, acting under the supposition that his wife is poor, gives the latter half to her.

—Nadar, the great photographer of Paris, who goes up in balloons and takes views from above, is preparing a monster air vessel for the purpose of crossing the Atlantic and making the chase in England. Afterwards he will coast over the Mediterranean.

—Two slipers were wending their way home late night, when one, thinker than the other, was taken by his Charles and put in the lock up. A friend on learning the mishap, asked the other why he did not call his companion out. "Call him out!" said the lawyer, "you could not pump him out."

—George Lindamood, Sons Blue since expatiates informed us that the number of Lexington and Concord 4700 rebel prisoners, taken at Arkansas Post, to Cairo. It looks like a rate array, but we caple and when it was known that the Lexington "conveyed" the prisoners they being conveyed in the sports.

—A loyal gentleman of Charlestown went to a retail store in Boston, and made a purchase to the extent of $40, and handed the shopkeeper four (10) greenbacks. The shopkeeper—a copperhead—gave a sober look thereon, saying, "They are not worth much." The gentleman asked to see them again, and putting them in his pocket left the copperhead to dispose of his goods to a customer who had better money than Uncle Sam's. Sacred like Right.

THE CHARGE ON THE BRONCHITIS. The New York Herald thus shows the bearing of the amendment of the tax bill relating to the sale of gold, which is said to have passed into a law:—

The amendment provides that all contracts for the sale or purchase of gold, not delivered, or to be performed within a period of three days, shall be in nothing and subject to the stamp tax, the tax being "equal in amount to one half of one per centum per annum on the amount so loaned, pledged or deposited," that if any loan, pledge or deposit shall be for a longer time than three days shall be renewed or extended it shall be taxed as above; that no money shall be loaned on gold and at no time exceeding in amount the par value of the coin, nor that a sub loan, if made, at all be stamp taxed.

This last provision puts the operations of the gold speculators, if they buy gold now they must give the really cash to pay the difference between the par value and the premium; for no one can obtain more than the par value of the gold. For example—If a speculator goes into Wall street to buy ten thousand dollars in gold at 165, he can not borrow ten thousand to turn on his gold, and must have the six thousand five hundred dollars premium in his pocket. Few men will feel to invest so much money in such a speculation. Before this amendment passed a speculator could borrow fifteen thousand dollars on ten thousand dollars in gold at 157; and would receive only one thousand seven hundred dollars to pay the balance. Here is a difference to the speculator of five thousand dollars on a small affair of ten thousand at 157; and the greater the premium and the higher the premium, the more difference the speculator will have to help on hand. How many gold buyers have five, fifty or five hundred thousand dollars to invest in this way? Some answers—Ed. Consequently the gold speculation is over.

COST OF WAR. From 1688 to 1816 England was more than half the time—sixty-seven years—engaged in war. The war of their wealth most modern cost over $3,000,000,000 in seven years; the seven years' war, cost $1,000,000,000; our revolutionary war cost England $280,000,000, and that of the French Revolution $2,520,000. Then at war with Napoleon, from 1803 to 1815 England raised by tax the enormous sum of $5,500,000,000, and by loans the further sum of $1,940,000—an average of over $1,822,000 per day. It has been said that seventy days previous to the battle of Waterloo, she spent an average of five million dollars per day.

Reported Committee on Streets and Highways on petition of Cornelius and others. Petitioners granted leave to withdraw.

Adjourned to Saturday evening at 7½ o'clock.

The steamship Juno was towed from Portland for Liverpool on Saturday last. The Argus says that a large portion of her cargo consists of flour for the "Lancashire Relief Fund," which fund warranted in England for the benefit of the starving operatives. This steamship company take out this flour, and other necessaries free of charge for freight.

Rev. J. C. Snow, Chaplain of 23d Maine Regiment, arrived in Norway on Monday, the 23d inst. He is rapidly regaining his health, and will probably return to his regiment soon.

BARK OF REAL ESTATE. B. B. Prescott, Real Estate Broker, has made sale of the house and lot on Ohio Street, owned by Amos Stetson, Esq., to the present occupant, Rev. Edwin Johnson, for $3,200.

The Bath Times says that on Thursday of last week a car of the K. & P. Railroad, loaded with hay, and which had just arrived at the city, was discovered to be on fire, supposed to have caught by sparks from the engine. The hay belonged to Messrs. Rice & Weeks. The loss could not have been far from $100.

The Portlanders are soon to have a horse railroad through some of their principal streets to Morrill's Corner in Westbrook, about two miles from the city.

Union Victory in Belfast

Hon. Albert G. Jewett, Union Candidate for Mayor of Belfast, was elected yesterday by 100 majority. Four out of five wards went Union.

Milford Town Officers.

MILFORD, March 9th, 1863.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier.

At the annual March meeting holden this day, the following officers were elected:

William Howard, Moderator
W. J. Blodgett, Town Clerk
B. D. Brown, M. Stone, Paul Dudley, 2d, Selectmen
Lewis Hampton, Treasurer
J. M. Robinson, Superintending School Committee
Wm. Howard, Town agent
All good Republicans. Yours, &c

Oldtown Town Election.

Messrs. Wheeler & Lynde:

Our annual election took place to-day. The following are the principal officers chosen:

Hon. Newell Blake, Moderator
G. R. Alford, Clerk
N. M. Hartwell, Robert Averill, D. S. Sawyer, Selectmen, Assessors and Overseers of the Poor
N. M. Hartwell, Town Agent
George F. Bingham, Treasurer

The copperheads made a desperate struggle, and by nominating a popular Union man and getting some Union men to vote for him, under a misapprehension, they succeeded in getting 67 votes to 184 for the Union candidate on the first ballot. We are abundantly able to take care of the Copperheads here.

Stetson Town Officers.

Joseph Wiggin, Moderator
Charles Starkey, Clerk
Joseph Wiggin, John Rogers, J. T. Holmes, Selectmen and Overseers of the Poor
Joseph Wiggin, Town Agent

All good Republicans. Average vote, 140. Republican, 90. Copperhead.

Brewer Town Officers.

George O. Goodwin, Moderator
William Morgan, Clerk
R. K. Cushing, Zenas Lawry, Jr., H. M. Farrington, Selectmen
D. A. Deane, Treasurer
George A. Snow, School Committee

All good and true Union men. The test vote was 168 Union, to 88 Copperhead.

THE NEW LOANS. It is said that the census office estimates that the number of males in the loyal States, between the ages of 20 and 35, will number two million three hundred thousand, and that at least one million five hundred thousand are fit for duty. It is thought that upon an average about one in three or four will pay the $300, in lieu of personal service. If, therefore, three hundred thousand troops should be called, in April or May, into the field, it would give government a fund of thirty millions which it could use in bounties for the purpose of inducing the old soldiers whose term of service is about to expire, to re-enlist. The Secretary of War can offer each soldier the sum of $300 cash paid at once, and it is believed that such an offer will retain the majority of the troops who will re-enlist, to leave in the quarter months. It is also expected that under certain provisions of the militia bill, at least fifty thousand deserters will voluntarily or involuntarily return to the army.

Mr. Paton, an English traveller, tells a story of monastic life. He says that while at the monastery at Mazasa he received a kind of complimentary dinner from the community. After dinner a monk called for a pamphlet, and began in a solemn matter-of-fact way, the following speech: "The greatest traveller of your country that we know of, was the wonderful navigator, Robinson Crusoe, of York, who, poor man, met with a great many difficulties, but at length, by the blessing of God, he was restored to his native country, his family and friends." Complimentary.

THE SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE is 218 pages in extent, and embraces, in that small compass, very much matter that was wholly new to us, and we think it will be new to most of the farmers of Maine. The Report of the Doings of the Board presents much of interest, but the chief value of the Report lies in the elaborate essay of the Secretary. His subject is, Cheese, and how to best make it. We had really begun to think that there was only one way for Maine farmers to make cheese, and that we should be obliged to rely exclusively upon New York for our more delicate and high-priced varieties of this important article of food. But Mr. Goodale, in this brief Report, shows to the agriculturists of our State that they have in their power not only to compete with, but to excel New York dairymen. Farming in our State is mainly "stock farming," so we have heard intelligent men from Massachusetts and New York say, and this view is borne out by the present Report.

We are glad, therefore, that amid the distractions of a civil war we have a small, ill-paid set of men, and an able Secretary, who prove to our people that the best way to pay for the war is by improving our home products. How much longer will our Portland merchants continue to purchase English and New York cheeses, if the farmers of our many counties in Maine will furnish them with an article just as good? And this report tells how this is to be done.

It is certainly a source of much satisfaction to citizens of Maine to see their public documents so highly spoken of in other states. These Reports of the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture are considered models of their kind, and have won very much praise from the agricultural papers and magazines, and deservedly. One of the Reports has been republished by a Boston publishing house, and is now used as a text book in one of the great agricultural institutions of the West. This is indeed high praise.

We are sorry to notice an injudicious attempt on the part of certain gentlemen in our Legislature, to abolish this Board, which has done so much to improve agriculture in Maine and which has been a source of so much credit to our State. We sincerely trust that the members of our House and Senate will hesitate long before giving up an institution of so much real and permanent benefit to our own farming community of Maine. Those who think that in abolishing the Board they would be acting in an economical manner, are very much mistaken. It is not the economy to deprive ourselves of land to wealth, to agricultural wealth, at a time like this. Those who entertain the opinion that a majority of the farmers of Maine are in favor of its abolishment are entirely at fault. And we hope that the ill-advised measure, which looks to us like an attempt on the part of some talkative members to make what they think will be political capital, will be strongly opposed by those who have the best interests of the State at heart.

In conclusion, let us quote a few words from the ending of Mr. Goodale's Report, that our readers may fully understand the war views of the Secretary:—

"While we would trust, with undoubted confidence, that the Great Ruler of nations will do all things well, and will crown the right with victory, it behooves us to strain every nerve and muscle, to put forth every energy and faculty to secure the end desired. We, who go not to the battle field, must do the utmost to support those who do, as well as those who must always be cared for at home.

Millions have been gained to the resources of the State by improved agriculture and never were such facts cause for great rejoicing than now. Let us then thank God, and take courage. Che-ish those organizations by which so much has been accomplished, and which, if ever useful at all, are more needful now than ever before. Help one another. Encourage one another. Be of good cheer.

Work and learn. Work in order to produce, learn how to produce that you may produce the more.

These are golden words of advice, and should be acted upon by all—merchants, professional men, farmers. "Let us then be up and doing."—Pres.
